Traffic Mishaps Take 109 Lives

One Under Estimate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic mishaps accounted for at least 109 deaths during the one-day Memorial holiday. Though the figure was one below the National Safety Council's estimate of 110, the council said Thursday it was "distressed" that the toll came so "tragically close" to its prediction.

An Associated Press survey of violent deaths occurring during the holiday period showed 32 persons drowned and 33 others died in a variety of accidents, bringing the toll from all violent causes to 174.

The count covered the period from 6 p.m. (local time) Tuesday to midnight Wednesday.

The 174 total for the holiday compared with 111 fatalities recorded two weeks ago in an Associated Press nonholiday survey for a comparable Tuesday night and Wednesday. On the nonholiday, 70 died in traffic, 8 were drowned and 33 died from miscellaneous violence.

The traffic death record for any one-day holiday—253—was set on Christmas Day 1946. During last year's Memorial Day holiday, a three-day weekend, 369 persons died in highway mishaps.

The Memorial Day toll by Midwestern states (traffic, drownings and miscellaneous):

Illinois 16 2 1; Indiana 4 1 0; Kentucky 1 1 0; Michigan 5 5 3; Minnesota 1 0 0; Missouri 0 2 0; Nebraska 0 1 0; Ohio 4 0 2; Wisconsin 3 1 1.

Give Rates For Plowing Under Immature Crops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government will offer farmers payments this year for plowing under immature crops of wheat, cotton, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco as a means of reducing production of troublesome farm surpluses.

The offer was made by Secretary of Agriculture Benson Thursday under a soil bank program which was authorized by a new farm law signed Monday by President Eisenhower.

The program authorizes total payments up to $1,200,000,000 a year through 1959.

The rates for plowing under crops already seeded, or for not planting land intended for the crops, will average nationally about $40 an acre for corn, $24 for wheat, $70 for cotton and $34 for rice.

Rates for peanuts and tobacco will be announced later.

Benson said any payments earned will be made as soon as farmer compliance can be determined, which presumably would be this summer or early fall.

The secretary said the payments will not be offered for plowing under mature crops because the public probably would not look with favor on it. This would tend to rule out much of the winter wheat crop grown in the Great Plains and Midwest and Eastern states. Most of this crop already has matured or is near that stage.

Guard Queen During Birthday Celebration

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II reviewed her troops Thursday in an official birthday celebration guarded by hundreds of police on the lookout for potential assassins.

Three gunmen from Cyprus, restive British colony in the Mediterranean, were reported to have slipped into England with designs against the royal family. That family is headed by the Queen, who was 30 April 21, and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

It was a sunny day, but men with raincoats roved up and down the procession route to keep watch on the cheering crowds. These were security men. The raincoats which set them apart were worn to hide their guns, for British police rarely go armed.

Though the public birthday celebration came 40 days late, everyone pretended this was the real day.

Two Die As Train Hits Boulder In W. Virginia

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—The engine of a passenger train snaking its way out of a tunnel in mountainous West Virginia early Thursday morning smashed into a 40-ton boulder and tumbled into a creek, killing the engineer and the fireman.

But the tunnel walls helped keep upright the cars with sleeping passengers on the Baltimore & Ohio's National Limited. It was en route from New York to St. Louis.

The engineer, J. C. Riley, 62, of Grafton, W. Va., was killed.

The diesels were locked together and were being operated as one engine as is the custom in this hilly section. The lead diesel plunged from a short bridge about a car length long, 35 feet into shallow Bond Creek.

It was mired in mud and it wasn't until the engine was lifted hours after the wreck that the body of the fireman, Paul R. Hooten, about 32, of Grafton, was found in the creek, under the lead diesel.

Several passengers received treatment for minor injuries, but none was hurt seriously.

The train was composed of three coaches, a baggage car, mail car, dining car and five Pullmans.

Heavy rains had fallen in the area and railroad officials theorized the huge rock was washed onto the track.

Judd: 'Old Guard' Plotted To Keep Dulles 'On The Go'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Walter Judd (R-Minn.) said Thursday he had heard of a plot to keep Secretary of Dulles roaming the globe so underlings could determine foreign policy in Washington.

The underlings he described as Old Guard holdovers from the Dean Acheson regime. At another point he said "pro-Communists" or "intellectuals" in lower echelons of the State and Defense Departments are pulling strings and influencing the policy of higher-ups of the Eisenhower administration.

Judd, a former medical missionary in China, testified before a Senate Internal Security subcommittee. The State Department had no comment.

The congressman, who is a top Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, testified that back in 1953 after the inauguration of President Eisenhower, a State Department employee told him of the alleged plot.

He said the employee explained that "the Old Guard employees" of the department who had served under Secretary Acheson in the Truman administration meant to keep Dulles on the global go. By so doing, the explanation continued, the day-to-day actions they took in Dulles' absence would become policy.

After the hearing, Judd told newsmen his informant was a department employee who had fought the Old Guard employees.

A reporter remarked on Dulles' frequent and extensive overseas trips and asked Judd whether he thought the plan reported to him had been carried out.

"You can judge for yourself," he replied.

Senate Approves Death Penalty For Heroin Peddlers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to allow the death penalty for the peddling of heroin passed the Senate by voice vote Thursday.

The measure now goes to the House, whose Ways and Means Committee Thursday approved a bill also calling for stiffer penalties for drug and marijuana peddlers, but not the death penalty.

The Senate-approved bill would permit juries to impose capital punishment for sale of heroin, called the "slow death narcotic," to teenagers, or for a third conviction of sale of the drug to adults.

Before passage the Senate eliminated a provision which would have authorized wire tapping to obtain evidence against narcotics peddlers in general, a provision which is retained in the House Committee bill.

Instead of the wiretap clause, the Senate approved a substitute calling for severe prison sentences for use of any "communications facility" in connection with the illicit traffic in drugs.

Withhold Details Of Exhumation Until Reburial

CHICAGO (AP)—The Cook County state's attorney Thursday announced that no details of the exhumation of the bodies of the three slain Chicago schoolboys will be made public until after they are reburied.

Officials declined to say whether the bodies have been exhumed.

State's Atty. John Kutchnick issued the statement in behalf of the coroner, police commissioner, detective bureau and sheriff's office. His statement read in part:

"The family agreed to the exhumation under the condition that no details be made public until after reburial.

"The doctors making the examination will report to the coroner the results of their examination, and the coroner will release the details after the bodies are reburied."

Dr. Jerry Kearns, former chief pathologist for the coroner, and the physician who made the original autopsies on John and Anton Schuessler, 13 and 11, and Robert Peterson, 14, will perform the post mortem.

He will be joined by Dr. Edmund Hirsch, chief pathologist at St. Luke's Hospital, a member of the coroner's advisory staff, Walter McCarron, Cook County coroner said.

The three bodies were found in a forest preserve northwest of Chicago Oct. 18 after they had been missing for two days.

Parents of the boys agreed to permit exhumation as a last-ditch effort to trace the slayer or slayers after a meeting with authorities Tuesday.

FBI Investigates Riot On Buffalo Excursion Boat

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation Thursday opened a "full and complete investigation" of the riotous passage of an excursion steamer from Crystal Beach, Ont. to Buffalo Wednesday night.

Pist and knife-slashing brawlers, both white and Negro, disrupted the holiday at the beach for thousands of Buffalo residents and turned the night's final run of the steamer Canadiana into an hour of terror.

At least 50 persons were injured. Seven received hospital treatment.

The FBI action was requested by U.S. Dist. Atty. John O. Henderson, who said after spending the day studying the knotty jurisdictional question:

"I am pretty well convinced we have at least concurrent jurisdiction with local authorities."

Meanwhile, federal assault complaints were filed against two of 12 youths arrested here and in Crystal Beach. But Henderson said no warrants would be issued at least until the FBI had examined fully the boat aspects of the stormy holiday.

Ontario provincial police arrested five Negro youths and four whites at Crystal Beach, a resort and amusement center on the north shore of Lake Erie 15 miles west of Buffalo. They ranged in age from 15 to 22.

When the Canadiana docked in Buffalo late Wednesday night, three more Negro boys were picked up.

Illegal To Trim License Plates

CHICAGO (AP)—Atty. Gen. La-tam Castle has ruled it illegal for a motorist to trim his license plates to fit plate frames or for any other reason.

The ruling was handed down at the request of State's Atty. Frank W. Curran of Kankakee County and was made public Thursday.

The question whether such trimming violated the law first was raised after Policeman Jack Muller of Chicago, the city's champion ticket writer, began ticketing car owners with cut-down plates.

His first case was dismissed in court but the judge declined to rule on whether the trimming constituted alteration or defacing of plates as defined in the law. The owners protested that no change was made in the plate numbers and that they were clearly visible.

Eisenhower Warns Against Complacency In 1956 Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, giving a preview of his 1956 campaign arguments, said his administration has brought about "a government that knows its place and doesn't interfere too much with me as I go about my daily business."

Eisenhower added amid laughter, "In an off-the-cuff talk to the National Citizens-for-Eisenhower Executive Campaign Conference: 'I assure that when I say 'me,' I think I am speaking for each of you.'"

The President stressed in his breakfast time talk that he is feeling fine and that his supporters must guard against complacency in the 1956 campaign.

Asserting the word "complacency" has no place in his vocabulary, Eisenhower said:

"When you are in a battle you bring forward everything you have; you accumulate your supplies; you get the best plan you can devise, and then you throw in your last reserves."

As for his own physical condition, Eisenhower told the enthusiastic gathering:

"For myself, as you know I was ill last fall. I can only say this: Now the only way I know is because the doctors keep reminding me of it. I am perfectly ready to go forward at the behest of such groups as this, and do the very best I can in obtaining the objectives that I know within me you want."

The President, during his talk, made what could have been a reply to Democratic critics who contend U. S. leadership in the world is at a low ebb. Eisenhower said "the prestige of the United States since the last World War has never been as high as it is in this day."

St. Louis Water Plant Employees Call Strike

ST. LOUIS (AP)—About 400 City Water Division employees are scheduled to go on strike at 3 a.m. (CST) Friday but city officials said Thursday there will be no interruption of the water supply.

But picket lines will be set up at several municipal buildings other than Water Division installations. John M. Keane, business agent of Local 675, State, County and Municipal Employees Union, which represents the strikers, said he believes many employees at these buildings won't cross the picket lines.

The men who operate the water plants—operating engineers, firemen, oilers and coal passers, will remain on duty to maintain the water supply.

Water Commissioner Thomas J. Skinner said the main effect of the strike on the water division will be to halt the laying of new water mains.

Kefauver Claims Stevenson Started Mud-Slinging Tactics

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver, stung by rival Adlai Stevenson's accusation of mud-slinging, hit back Thursday with the statement that Stevenson was the instigator of personal attacks between the two.

Campaigning hard for California's vital primary election next Tuesday, the tall Tennessee told an airport news conference:

"It ill behooves him (Stevenson) to speak of mud-slinging. For some months he has been making personal and unfounded attacks on me."

"When he first made these charges I would turn first one cheek and then the other."

Stevenson Wednesday charged that Kefauver is "engaging in mud-slinging tactics that will hurt the Democratic party."

Both aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination toured the Los Angeles area Thursday. While Kefauver was rejecting Stevenson's suggestion of an intra-party truce Stevenson largely ignored the senator and concentrated on assailing policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Meanwhile, Kefauver's national campaign chairman said that the result of Tuesday's Florida primary was "make it all but impossible for Stevenson to consider himself a serious candidate for the Democratic nomination."

Stevenson narrowly defeated Kefauver in Florida.

F. Joseph Donohue said Stevenson forces had expected a "smashing victory" and added:

"Against a campaign that was financed by a slush fund unparalleled in Florida primary history, the Kefauver personal integrity and popularity came through."

At a joint service club luncheon, Kefauver attacked his rival's record as a legal counsel for what he termed "one of the country's biggest monopolies."

Stevenson appeared in 1954 as counsel for RCA in a federal court suit in which two other companies charged RCA with an illegal patent pool.

"Now everyone has a right to counsel," Kefauver said, "but I question the propriety of the man who was then recognized as the head of the Democratic party in taking on the job of representing one of the world's vast aggregations money and power for the purpose of trying to deprive two independent companies of having their day in court."

Covered Up Red Arms Buildup, U.N. Claims

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The U. N. Command told the four-member Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission Thursday to get out of South Korea, charging it had been used to mask a truce-violating arms buildup in North Korea.

The commission is supposed to police armistice violations.

The U. N. Command accused Czechoslovak and Polish members of flagrantly unneutral conduct in covering up Communist violations and frustrating attempts of the Swedish and Swiss members to investigate them.

The commission's functions in South Korea have been suspended. The U. N. Command informed the Communist command, until all provisions of the armistice agreement are met in North Korea, particularly those forbidding an increase in military strength.

The UNC demanded "corrected Communist reports" of shipments of combat material and aircraft—particularly jet planes—which it said the Reds have moved illegally into North Korea since the armistice was signed at Geneva in 1953.

Britain announced the 16 nations whose troops compose the U. N. Command, headed by U.S. Maj. Gen. Robert G. Gard, have rejected a Communist Chinese proposal for a conference to reunite Korea and withdraw foreign troops.

The British Foreign Office said it had sent a note on behalf of all 16 governments telling Peiping and the Communist North Korean regime the two have given no evidence of the good faith required to make such a meeting useful.

The North Koreans declared in a broadcast by the Pyongyang radio Thursday night they will discharge 80,000 men from their armed forces by Aug. 31 and called on South Korea to cut its army, too, to speed talks of reunification.

How Farmers Qualify For Full Price Props On 1956-Crop Corn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers found out Thursday the conditions for becoming eligible for the Agriculture department's full price support rate of $1.50 a bushel for 1956-crop corn. To some, they are confusing.

Under its corn program, the department some time ago made individual farm planting allotments totaling 43,281,000 acres for a designated commercial producing area comprising midwestern, midatlantic and southeastern states.

The new farm law signed Monday by President Eisenhower directed the department to make new allotments—termed "base acreages"—for these farms totaling 51 million acres.

The department said Thursday that a farmer will automatically become eligible for the $1.50 rate if he plants within the original allotment.

But if he ignores the original one and uses the new and larger base acreage figure, he will become eligible for the $1.50 rate only if he complies with provisions of the new soil bank program relating to corn.

Under these provisions, he must put crop land equal to 15 per cent of his corn base acreage into either the acreage reserve or the conservation reserve parts of the soil bank.

Under the acreage reserve part, the farmer gets—in addition to eligibility for price supports—payments from the government for underplanting his base acreage.

Under the conservation reserve, he gets annual rental payments for taking land out of commercial production and putting it into non-commercial uses such as trees, grass and other conservation uses.

To qualify for the maximum support rate through the acreage (Continued on Page Eleven)

Court Upholds Sheppard Murder Conviction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Supreme Court said Thursday Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, 32, although convicted after a widely publicized trial, must serve out a life sentence for wife-murder rather than risk a death decree by standing trial anew.

The 5-2 decision upheld the osteopath's second degree murder conviction for the slaying of his pregnant wife, Marilyn, 31, nearly two years ago.

Sheppard was tried on the first degree murder charge that carries a maximum sentence of death in Ohio's electric chair for conviction.

Paul M. Herbert, who argued Sheppard's appeal before the State Supreme Court, said he did not know whether the appeal would be carried to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Common Pleas Judge Edward Glynn, who presided at Sheppard's trial said, "It is a trial judge's only duty to see to it that the accused is given a fair trial. We sincerely tried to do that in Sam Sheppard's case, and I am confident we accomplished it. It is gratifying that two appellate courts find that to be the fact."

The bludgeoning slaying occurred July 4, 1954, in the Sheppard home beside Lake Erie west of Cleveland in suburban Bay Village.

Stevenson Charges Republican Party Fosters Growing Tide Of Isolationism

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson declared Thursday that President Eisenhower has failed to develop any positive program to cope with new Russian world tactics for fear that such action would "split the Republican party wide open."

Stevenson campaigned for California support in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination with an attack on what he called a growing tide of isolation within the Republican party.

Linking this directly to California's Republican Sen. William Knowland, Stevenson said that while "the Soviet Union is employing its most formidable tactics in ideological, economic and political warfare the United States government remains frozen on dead center."

Stevenson spoke in the role of a candidate so apparently confident he will win his party's nomination that he could afford to devote most of his major effort in one of the final days of the California campaign to blasting at the Republican President he hopes to oppose in the November election.

Stevenson suggested that possible by the best way to end what he called an "aimless, erratic drift" in foreign policy would be for Secretary of State Dulles to be removed from the Cabinet.

Stevenson also took President Eisenhower to task for what he said was the President's "unexplained decision not to put his support politically behind Republican Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin, who has 'based his political future on support of the administration's foreign policy.'"

Wiley has been denied support from the Republican party organization in Wisconsin in his bid for renomination but has announced he will continue the fight. Stevenson suggested that perhaps Eisenhower's failure thus far to give public support to Wiley might have "some connection with Vice President Nixon's reports of the unpopularity in the Middle West of the foreign aid program" which Wiley supports.

Stevenson suggested that possi-

ELIZABETH II

No one has ever satisfactorily outlined how the Queen explains the difference between a birthday and an official birthday to her youngsters. Prince Charles and Princess Anne, who they celebrated seriously too. Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret also attended.

The official explanation is better weather in May than in April. Elizabeth is following royal precedent in holding off the formal observance until late spring.

Although the detectives were scattered through the crowds wherever the Queen went, no threats to kill the Queen materialized. Scotland Yard is reported to have received a letter saying the Cypriots planned to take pot shots at her in revenge for the hanging of two Greek Cypriot gunmen on charges of murder and attempted murder.

A movement for union of Cyprus with Greece is challenging British rule over the island and chilling relations between Britain and Greece.

Lake Decatur, Sangamon River Swollen By Rains

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—The level of Lake Decatur was 3 1/3 feet above the top of the dam Thursday and authorities said the Sangamon River, swollen by weekend rains, had reached its crest.

Homer L. Chastain, waterworks superintendent, reported the river was flowing over the dam at the rate of 10,000 cubic feet a second. This compares with 100 cubic feet under normal conditions.

Chastain said he had received numerous appeals from property owners downstream who suffered flood damage asking that the dam gates be raised to stem the flow. He said the dam was not a flood control project and the gates would be left in the "down" position. Raising them would merely delay downstream flooding, he said, and would flood property upstream.

Lake Decatur is formed by the dam across the Sangamon.

Austrian Vote Encouraging

Tiny Austria, long a courageous fighter for freedom while standing in the shadow of Russian communism, has once more reasserted its independence.

The first general elections it has held since foreign occupation troops moved out in 1955 gave ample proof of Austria's determination to continue its remarkable resistance to all pressures and blandishments from the East.

The conservative People's party of Chancellor Julius Raab gained a notable triumph, adding eight parliament seats to its present total. The next strongest party, the Socialists, edged up just two seats.

The Communists dropped one, and managed to poll less than 150,000 votes against Raab's total of more than two million.

Officially, under the terms of its peace treaty, Austria is of course neutral. Raab actually favors a "softer" neutrality policy toward the Soviet Union than do the rival Socialists. But in spirit and in its goals Austria belongs with the free world.

Indeed, as indicated at the outset, the Austrians have battled more stubbornly in the cause of liberty than have others more fortunately placed strategically.

The big issue in the campaign just concluded turned on 'free enterprise' in Austria's oil fields. The Socialists wanted to nationalize them 100 per cent. The People's party proposed to hold state ownership to 51 per cent, leaving the remainder in private hands.

Raab's proposal, which now he presumably may be able to carry out, would allow more favorable operating conditions for U.S., British and other foreign oil companies with interests in Austria.

That desire to keep an economic climate favorable to Western nations, without outraging neighboring Communists, shows plainly where Austria's heart really lies in the struggle for Europe.

A secondary aspect of this election was the happy decline of the country's extreme right wing elements. These have devoted their efforts largely to shouting their Germanism, and their supporters bore a strong Nazi color.

All in all, a most satisfactory election outcome as viewed both from America and from the Austrian scene itself.

Austria may be technically neutral, but it observes a dynamic sort of neutrality which often must appear more attractive to leading Western diplomats than the avowed support they get from certain allies.

Boyle's Column

By JIM BECKER
(For Hal Boyle)

HONOLULU (U)—The dreamy, unsophisticated South Pacific is no more. The island natives, via radio and war gained knowledge, are strictly up to date.

Loin clad baseball teams porting pitchers with a wicked curve, school teachers strictly up on the racial situation and natives who turn down cigarettes of the wrong brand are the things that travelers find now.

The Navy destroyer escort Whitehurst found the baseball team on a palm-ringed atoll named Lukunor. The chief of the island challenged the sailors to a game.

The bases were made of palm leaves and driftwood and there was an outrigger canoe in center field. The natives had no gloves or shoes and their uniforms were tin clothes, but they could play baseball.

LT. (JG) Tom Kelleher from Salem, Mass., the ship's athletic officer, got up a team of pretty confident sailors—until they got to bat.

The natives won 7 to 4. "The only reason we got any runs at all was because their second baseman couldn't field a round ball," Kelleher said.

The lieutenant struck out the first time up, and singled the second. It was the only really solid hit the sailors got.

"I never saw anything like that fitcher. He had a really wicked curve," said Kelleher, who played three years of college ball.

David B. George of Honolulu, back from an eight months cruise in the South Seas, said he visited a island in the Fiji group that didn't had a white man on it in 10 years.

"A native walked up and asked me, 'Mac, how are you handling the racial problem in the United States, now?'"

The native was a school teacher and an avid listener to radio news.

In the Cook Islands groups, George reported that the natives flatly turned down his offers of cigarettes.

"Wrong brand," he explained. "The Army had an air base there during the war and the natives got spoiled. Anyway they didn't like these filter tips."

There is an aloneness which sometimes closes in on us to the point that one seems to be separated from his surroundings. We feel this loneliness when others are too busy to talk to us or too greatly occupied with their own interests to realize that we exist. We all crave friendship. We all need love.

Those who know God find release from loneliness in His nearness. In moments of despair we talk with God and find Him a good listener. He does not interrupt our stories. He does not scoff at our fears and concerns. God does not tell us to solve our own problems.

God is the kind of friend who gives a sympathetic ear to all our worries and hardships. Quietly He talks to us. He strengthens our weakness. He lends a helping hand when we would otherwise stumble and fall.

When we err we find God ready and willing to forgive us. God holds no grudges and never passes judgment based on circumstantial evidence. He is ever kind and never indifferent.

The next time you suffer from spiritual claustrophobia just talk to God. After you have talked yourself out, then listen. God will speak to you and you will not be alone.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Bridget Murphy has brought a new party craze to Hollywood—hypnotism.

Toast of the town after only six weeks here is a Scottish-born Canadian named Bill McGonigle. At various parties he has hypnotized Kathryn Grayson into telling of another life as an English housewife, Jane Powell into persisting with her diet and Phyllis Kirk into giving up sweets and cigarettes.

Hollywood embraces fads with vigor—author Gaylord Hauser's diet and scabrous struck hard here. So it was only natural that the movie folk should become intrigued with hypnotism. A professional entertainer is currently hypnotizing notables nightly at Mocambo. Volumes on hypnotism have been snapped up at the book stores.

McGonigle, 34, has been invited to 15 exclusive parties in recent weeks and, to hear him tell it, he has been a sensation. Among his amazing achievements was shutting up Mickey Rooney.

The obstreperous Mick was always getting into the act while McGonigle was hypnotizing others at a recent party. So the hypnotist put the whammy on Mickey and made him sit silently in a chair.

"I was a little nervous about working in front of these people," the Scotsman observed, "because all of them are entertainers in their own right. But they seemed to be fascinated by what I was doing."

And no wonder. He regressed Kathryn Grayson to a "previous life" as the wife of an older man and the mother of three children in 19th century England. McGonigle said that the singer gave an amazing reproduction of the talk of a semi-literate Lancashire woman.

"At one point she started crying that her husband had died," he related. "Some of the guests like Sterling Hayden got alarmed, so I brought her back to the present."

Insects, Particularly Flies, Endanger Human Health

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

World Health Day this year was celebrated on April 7, with the theme "Destroy Disease-Carrying Insects."

I have delayed discussion of this important event and even more important objective because insects do not become a "biting" issue in most parts of North America until later in the season.

It has been estimated that in actual body mass, insects in the world would outweigh all mammals including human beings.

In seeking food, insects acquire infections and pass on to us, and to many animals, a host of diseases including malaria, plague, sleeping sickness and yellow fever. Some insects spread such diseases as dysentery and cholera by carrying germs to our food or drink.

IN THE CAMPAIGN against dangerous insects the World Health Organization, which is the medical arm of the United Nations, is extremely active. In North and South America this work is done by a regional branch called the Pan American Sanitary Bureau.

It is not possible, in a brief discussion, to even mention all of the insects which are dangerous to human beings.

However, first in rank is the mosquito spreading malaria. The campaign against this killing insect has been enormously aided by the discovery of such insect poisons as DDT. Already more than 200,000 people have been protected against malaria although 370,000,000 still remain exposed.

TO GET AN IDEA of the immensity of this problem I shall use figures from the World Health Organization.

The world toll of malaria cases has been estimated at 300,000,000 every year. The annual number of deaths is 3,000,000.

The disease also cuts down agricultural production and prevents the development of fertile land. When malaria can be overcome the economic rewards from better health are tremendous.

For example, Ceylon was able to bring under irrigation more than 206 square miles of previously uninhabitable jungle and to establish 91,000 landless people in 26 new colonization schemes.

One important insect-borne disease is African sleeping sickness carried by the tsetse fly. In the territories afflicted millions of people are in danger. In Uganda, it was estimated that 200,000 people died of this insect-borne disease between 1896 and 1906.

THE TSETSE FLY and the African sleeping sickness doubtless seem far removed to most readers. The ordinary house fly is a different matter.

This pesky insect seems to be always with us and plays a part in the spread of dysentery, summer or infant diarrhea, cholera, typhoid fever, trachoma (an eye disease), and may influence the spread of tuberculosis and poliomyelitis.

As disease spreaders flies are principally dangerous because germs cling to their legs and then fall off on food as they walk over it.

Unfortunately house flies quickly become resistant to DDT. However, their numbers can be reduced by improved hygiene and sanitary conditions. This involves lessening the opportunities for their breeding by cleaning up refuse and waste matter of all kinds which is suitable for the deposit of eggs.

The World

Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (U)—The nation is on the eve of a huge new super-highway program costing about 27½ billion dollars over the next 13 years, with the federal government putting up 25 billions and the states the rest.

It will mean a system of 40,000 miles spanning the country, linking the main cities, with six, four and two-lanes, overpasses, underpasses, and a minimum of stop-lights.

What will it be like? Rep. Russell V. Mack (R-Wash.) recently painted a picture of it:

"...Thirteen years from now the American motorist can travel from... northern Maine to the Mexican border south of San Diego, Calif., a distance of 4,500 miles, over four-lane divided highways on which traffic will not be interrupted by a single stoplight."

Sound romantic or far-fetched? An official of the government's Bureau of Roads, which will supervise the project, said "no, that's just about right."

In Congress the House has passed a bill to set this system in motion. The Senate is expected to pass a similar one today. There will be differences between the two remaining to be ironed out. President Eisenhower is expected to make the measure law.

Why such a superhighway network? For one thing: Defense, or speed in case of war. For another: To meet traffic needs. Ten years ago there were 34 million registered vehicles on the highways. Today there are 62 million. In 10 years there will be about 85 million.

But the 27½ billion dollars for the superhighways is not all the money the government and states will spend on highways. They will probably spend an additional 25 billions over the next 13 years on primary, secondary and urban roads. The federal government's share should be about 36½ billion dollars.

The federal government and the states for years have been chipping in on the cost of primary (main, most traveled highways), secondary (less-traveled) and urban (highways going into cities) roads.

In this country there are now about 240,000 miles of primary, 500,000 miles of secondary, and perhaps 15,000 miles of urban roads. Where does the new superhighway fit into this picture?

Of the 240,000 miles of primary roads, 40,000 will be designated as part of the interstate system. Does that mean no new roads will be built, that the 40,000 miles of primary roads will simply be improved? No.

Some of those 40,000 miles will be widened, straightened out, overpassed or underpassed, or otherwise improved. But about 32,000 miles of new roads—which will be the primary roads—will be built.

For example: A present primary road—or parts of it—may have to be diverted to make it shorter or more direct.

One official of the Bureau of Roads figured the program will mean employment for maybe 400,000 men a year working directly on construction and perhaps 600,000 a year in businesses connected with roadbuilding.

This isn't all free. Taxes are going up on motorists and truckers. For example:

A boost of one cent a gallon to three cents on the gasoline tax, special motor fuel and diesel fuel; an increase on the tire tax from the present five cents to eight cents a pound; a new tax of three cents a pound on camelback used for retreading; a rise of two per cent points to 10 per cent in the manufacturer's tax on trucks, buses, and trailers; and a higher tax on trucks weighing over 26,000 pounds.

Mr. Truman will be the most influential man at... (Democratic National) Convention, although not a delegate or candidate.

—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn).

We are faced with the heaviest tax burden in history. In 25 years our federal budget has grown from three to over sixty billion dollars. The per capita share of debt in the past 25 years has risen from $135 to $1,670.

—Harry H. Heimann, executive vice president National Association of Credit Men.

Gov. Averell Harriman.

What a shock it must have been when the new 1956 automobiles first saw some of our roads.

CARS FOR MEXICO
MEXICO CITY (U)—Mexico now has a motor vehicle for each 58 inhabitants, a mark which the National Finance Council figures is good compared to other countries besides the United States.

The world average, excluding the U. S., the council says, is one vehicle per 80.5 persons. Of Mexico's 495,500 vehicles, 28 per cent are in the federal district.

Relatives can entertain for the bride or for the bride and groom with other kinds of parties—but no showers.

Teacher Shortage Still Bad, But Beginning to Level Off

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (U)—There's hope that the great U.S. school-teacher shortage will be in reasonable balance by 1962. This means that within six years there will be enough new teachers entering the profession to take care of the new schoolrooms that will be opened to take care of growing population, plus replacement for teachers who resign, retire or die. Within 10 years it is believed teacher supply will be in full balance with the demand.

This first good word on America's run-down educational system comes from National Education Association's Commission on Teacher Education. It has surveyed this June's crop of college and normal school graduates and found an increase in the number educated for teaching. This trend is expected to continue over the next six to 10 years.

It is partially the result of an active recruiting program run by an organization called Future Teachers of America. It has 3,000 high schools and 600 college chapters.

These Chapters Work Hard at interesting undergraduates in the teaching profession, and their efforts pay off.

There's a catch in it, of course. One third of the graduates who prepare for teaching don't go into the profession. Industry grabs them off for higher salaries.

A typical case is said to be that of a just-passing grade C student trained for science teaching. He was hired for $6,000 a year to go into private industry. This was more than any of his professors—the men who taught him—were getting. It compares with the $2,300 which average teachers can get in, say Arkansas, or $3,000 in California.

The basic cause of the teacher shortage of the past 10 years, says Dr. T. M. Stinnett of National Education Association, is not money. It is something that is beyond control. That is the low birth rate of the depression 1930's and the high birth rate of the war-booming 1940's and 1950's.

What this resulted in was that the number of 18-to-21-year-old youngsters dropped by 100,000 a year from 1945 to 1955. It cut college graduates from an all-time high of 434,000 in 1950 to 28,000 in 1955. In other words, the potential supply of teacher material was dried up.

This Happened Right At The Time when the war babies were reaching school age and more teachers were needed.

The situation is worst in states like Florida, Texas and California which have had a great immigration of new families since the war, says Dr. Stinnett. California needs 13,000 new teachers next fall and is supplying only about half of them from her own population.

California will make up the shortage largely by hiring teachers away from other states for more money.

In general the cities take care of their teacher needs without too much trouble. The new suburban areas which have little revenue beyond local land taxes to support their growing school needs are hard hit. The smaller, poorer, rural communities suffer worst of all.

Getting Down To The Figures of the thing, National Education Association finds that a minimum of 175,000 qualified new teachers will be needed in continental U. S. next year. The colleges are graduating 38,000 trained primary school teachers—up three per cent from last year and 57,000 trained high school teachers—up 15 per cent. The total supply is 95,000 if they all teach—which they won't. The association expects a shortage of 85,000 for the next school year.

It will be made up by crowding classrooms and by hiring teachers with sub-standard credentials. U. S. Office of Education says that this year 77,500, or about seven per cent of the 1,135,000 full time, day, public school teachers were substandard. But at 30 to the classroom, they were teaching over 2,325,000.

The quality of teachers is coming up, though. The National Education Association says only 46 per cent were college-trained in 1949. This year 67 per cent were college-trained.

Professional educators take a dim view of some of the recent suggestions to make up teacher shortages by calling on industrial engineers or armed forces technicians to teach science classes part time. Worst of all is one idea proposed by a national magazine to draft people to teach school.

Fresh Strawberry Freeze Is Gay and Nutritious

DELICIOUS FLAVOR of ripe strawberries is frozen into this delightful dessert. And recipe uses powdered milk.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Here's a dessert we tried the other day, using premeasured packaged instant nonfat dry milk. The easy-to-use milk provides essential milk nutrients and costs as little as seven cents a quart.

Strawberry Freeze (Makes 44 servings)
One-half cup water, 3 to 4 spoons sugar, 1 cup sliced fresh strawberries, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder.

Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Combine 1 cup water and 3 tablespoons sugar. Boil until sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Cool. Combine water and lemon juice in deep 1-quart bowl. Sprinkle instant nonfat dry milk powder over surface of water. Beat with a rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff, about 8-10 minutes. Fold in strawberries. Pour into 1-quart refrigerator tray. Freeze until firm, about 4 hours. Note: If one package (10-ounce) frozen sliced berries, defrosted, is used, fold into whipped instant nonfat dry milk, omitting sugar.

Spanish Cream (Makes 8 servings)
One envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, separated; 3 cups liquid instant nonfat dry milk, 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract.

Combine gelatin, 1 cup of the sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Blend in egg yolks; slowly stir in liquid instant nonfat dry milk. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture coats a spoon. Chill mixture over ice water, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Stir in vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually add remaining sugar. Beat until stiff. Fold into nonfat dry milk mixture. Spoon into 8 sherbet glasses. Chill until set, about 4 hours. To make a two-layer Spanish Cream: Do not chill nonfat dry milk mixture. Add vanilla and fold in beaten egg whites while nonfat dry milk mixture is still hot. Garnish with fresh strawberries.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Frozen fish sticks with lobster or shrimp sauce, fluffy rice, new peas with white onions, crusty bread, butter or margarine, mixed green salad, French dressing, strawberry freeze, coffee, tea, milk.

500 Hear Kiwanis President Deliver Stirring Address

Five hundred Kiwanians and their wives, including many from distant parts of Illinois and Iowa, gathered at MacMurray College Wednesday evening to honor Kiwanis International President Jackson A. Raney and hear him deliver a stirring address on the 1956 Kiwanis theme—"Build as Free Men."

The occasion was the annual fellowship meeting and ladies night of Kiwanis Division 11. A. Wadsworth Applebee, Lt. Governor of the Division, presided during most of the meeting after Harlan L. Williamson, local Kiwanis president, made the call to order.

Lloyd Graunke, general chairman of the event, presented the MacMurray College chorus before the address of the International president. The chorus thrilled the crowd with selections from the musical hit "South Pacific."

Many distinguished Kiwanis leaders, including past and present national and district officers, were in attendance at the banquet meeting. Representative delegations from all 13 clubs in Division 11 were on hand to make the meeting the largest fellowship meeting ever held in the division's history.

International President Raney, who delivered the commencement address at the Illinois School for the Deaf earlier in the day and who is himself head of the Indiana State School for the Deaf in Indianapolis, inspired his listeners with a plea for positive attitudes in support of freedom. Speaking as the official spokesman for more than 250,000 Kiwanians of two great nations, the United States and Canada, Raney declared "Nothing is impossible as long as we're free."

Dr. Louis W. Norris, MacMurray president, gave the invocation at the meeting.

American Legion Citizenship awards were presented to Suellen Stiltz and Charles Musch at the grade school promotion exercises on Thursday evening.

The awards were presented by J. E. Peck, representing Arenzville American Legion Post 604. Suellen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foreman Stiltz, and Charles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Musch.

Frying Chickens To Be Specials This Week End

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A large crop of chickens landed in the nation's food stores this week, making fryers the most widely offered special for the weekend.

Housewives will find the birds priced lower than last week in most sections of the country, although local supply conditions could hold prices firm or even higher in some areas.

There was a variety of other meats on special sale, but no particular pattern prevailed throughout the country. Rising wholesale prices for meats in the past few weeks have forced retailers to look hard for specials and what they find varies widely.

Beef cuts held firm on wholesale markets this week. Lamb was scarce and showed no sign of giving up the strong advances made in recent weeks. Pork went higher and is now close to levels at which it sold a year ago.

Turkeys find their way onto a large number of special sale lists this week.

Local farms continued to supply the outstanding buys on vegetable counters. These were chiefly radishes, spinach, green onions and various types of lettuce.

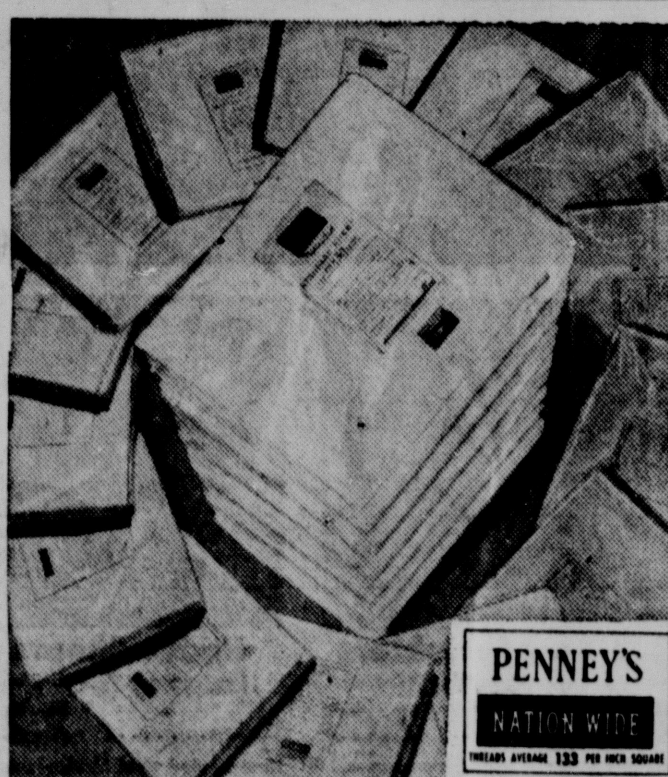

Good buys included celery, carrots, corn and beans. Strawberries are increasing in volume and prices are frequently down to the good buy level. However, condition and quality of the fruit varies greatly.

SAVING BY SPENDING

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP)—Chairman Roger W. Hart of the board of education says Fairfield can save money by spending money to build new schools. He told fellow board members that if five schools here are replaced with new buildings, the annual maintenance cost will be cut by $145,000.

Wind Damages
Eldred Homes

CARROLLTON—The homes of Mrs. Chris Daum and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Eldred were damaged by falling trees in a severe wind and rainstorm which struck Carrollton Monday afternoon.

A large tree fell across the roof of the Daum residence located on South Main and broke through the roof at the rear of the house and also tore some of the weatherboarding from the house. The rainfall following the roof damage caused interior damage to the house also.

The Eldred house on 5th street suffered damage to guttering and the roof of a porch caused by a falling tree. A utility pole was also broken at the Eldred place by the weight of the tree falling on the wires.

Traffic was stopped for a time on Alternate 67 at the home of Dr. Fred Walter when a tree fell across the street but there was no damage to any of the residences in the area.

Moch, executive director of the Adams County Easter Seal Agency, Mrs. Betty Robertson and Mrs. Ruby Booth, county nurses, and Mrs. George Daigh, occupational therapist, to hear plans for the new Pike County Treatment Center.

Fear 20 Hogs Perish As Water Pours On Farm

CARROLLTON — Twenty fat hogs are missing and are believed to be under the 4 1/2 to 5 feet of water that has nearly flooded the farm of Jake Claflin near Eldred, in the low land down from the bluff.

Two and seven-tenths inches of rain fell the past two days in the Eldred vicinity and because of the low location of the Claflin farm, located two miles south of Eldred, much water came rushing down on the land. The hogs were in a lot located at the rear of the Claflin's home. Also endangered is 3,000 bushels of corn that is half-submerged in the soaked area. Thursday morning the family reported the water had receded very little.

Fall Drifter

By W. Edmunds Claussen

THE STORY: Three people have asked Emmett Cash why he returned to Cashtown. Frank Ude, who is with Cash, believes Emmett is a trouble maker, probably a horse thief. While Frank and Emmett are in a restaurant, the Mexican cook is severely burned and is taken to Dr. La Tour.

VIII
DR. LA TOUR dropped his glance to Juan. The callousness ran out of his face. He said, "Bring him inside, gentlemen."

Frank Ude was certain Yates had been brought to the doctor with his gunshot arm. Considering the fact that Emmett was stealing horses from this range put the doctor in a bad spot. He would be honor bound to notify the sheriff of Yates' condition, and as Frank weighed the man and his relationship with Emmett he decided La Tour hadn't reported that gunshot wound. The sheriff would put Yates under arrest, at least until the matter of who was stealing horses was brought into the clear.

The doctor's knife flashed as he slit the remainder of the burned jacket, carefully peeling the fabric from the sweat-soaked arms. When he had his look he motioned toward the couch and Emmett helped lower Juan to its cushions.

Finally La Tour laid his flat palm across the cook's forehead, staring at him with a gentleness that surprised Frank. "Juan Lopez, you are a clean hombre," he murmured through a collection of ancient jars until he found certain ones. "I've seen babies scalded by hot lard that look a better than Juan. He'll be all right once he gets a hold on himself."

He was on the point of adding more, but now his head cocked to one side. He listened to the clatter of boot heels on the porch.

"That'll be her, Emmett. Better crawl in your hole. Crack steel to your horse before your sister finds you in my house!" His sister La Tour was talking about the girl they called Jean. It went through Frank like a scalding liquid, although he had been expecting it. Now he knew for sure. He compared the modeling of their cheekbones, of their eyes and their mouths. He was struck by the undeniable similarity. Yet Emmett was aggressive, so ribald in his laughter, so virile with his flaming hair. And Jean had been so dark, with soft blue-gray eyes and fine skin and features that seemed fine as Emmett's were coarse.

A bristling curse came from Emmett. He said swiftly, "Follow me, Frank. We're pulling out." He faded into the rear quarters of La Tour's apartment still looking toward Frank. But Frank remained in the office with his mind made up to see this through.

When Jean came into the room she dropped to her knees beside the couch. The cook tried to smile but he was lashed too deeply by pain. He murmured something but his words were too low for Frank to catch. "Was it really Emmett?" Frank heard Jean demand. The cook's eyes shifted the smallest degree. Jean lifted her glance to Frank and asked presently:

"You brought him here?"
"With others' help."
"Was it my brother?"
Frank let a moment slide feeling icy drafts along his spine. "I'm not sure I know your brother," he said and saw Jean flush slightly.

La Tour spoke up at this point. He saw the deadlock between them and wisely broke it. "Look, Senorita Cash, you ain't out on the Rafter C. Suppose you snuffle and let me look after my patient."

She said, "Doc, if you hurt Juan, I'm coming back and cut off your ears."

Doc snapped his tongue against the roof of his mouth. "Well, I've sewed plenty of them back to men's heads in my time. Now hightail out of here for a spell. A cup of brandy in his belly and a little lard on his chest is apt to make a new man of Juan Lopez."

"Mind, Doc," she said with caustic brightness touching her voice. "I don't want Juan to suffer."

She arose from beside the couch, coming toward Frank. As he looked at the clean, sharp outline of her face he recalled Emmett's anger on leaving this room. There was something unhealthy about it, something rank. This was the kind of outfit he had thrown in with. The thought sobered him.

Jean laid her hand lightly against his forearm, her lips softening. "Doc doesn't want me around. You and I should talk."

THEY walked through the red brussel-carpeted hallway to the front entrance. Frank was conscious of the strange quickening of his pulse. He knew why he had read character into Jean.

They stepped to the veranda where they caught the sheriff with one foot lifted to the steps. Here Chantry paused staring at Jean. There was a moment of indecision, while Chantry made up his mind. It was Jean who shook her head slowly side-to-side. From this Frank decided she was telling the lawman her brother wasn't inside.

"Been tied up with other matters," he told her gently. "Just found out about the fire."

Juan is going to be all right. Nothing we can do, Lew, that George La Tour won't tend to."

"That's right," Chantry agreed and stepped back to the walk. His gaze shifted to Frank letting Frank feel the weight of appraisal. It was the second time the sheriff had taken his measure, and Chantry was still not satisfied.

Fall Drifter

By W. Edmunds Claussen

THE STORY: Frank Ude has just learned that Jean Cash is a sister of a man who saved his life. Emmett, who has brought Frank to Cashtown, may be a horse thief and he does not seem to be welcome in the town his father built.

IX

WHEN the sheriff was gone Jean said gently, "Is there a place where you fit in this? It seems to me like part of a puzzle. Why are you in town?"

He lifted his shoulder, shrugging. "I wouldn't know about the puzzle. I rode into Cashtown hunting a man. The man had done me a favor."

"Was it a big favor?" she asked. Her mouth formed a faint smile. "Well, watch him. Emmett doesn't give favors away—he expects plenty in return."

She was silent and he saw the gray shade cross her cheeks. He wondered if it was fear. No, Jean Cash wouldn't know fear. It was suspicion. Suspicion of him, of Emmett Cash.

She spoke out of a depressing stillness. "Juan Lopez and I are old friends from far back. I was Dad's trail cook—a long time ago, when they herded from Texas. That Mexican is one in a thousand."

Frank told her again La Tour had said the cook was all right. Lopez, he decided, had probably been given the restaurant shack by old man Cash. Remembering the familiarity that had held between the doctor and Jean he suspected La Tour also had been a friend of her father's. This was why Emmett had trusted the doctor by bringing Jonathan Yates to town.

He realized suddenly he hadn't told Jean his name. He did so at once, then waited a polite moment before taking his leave. Her hand sprang out to halt him. "I saw you ride that gelding into town. I need a man who knows horses. And you do. Assuming that your debt to Emmett isn't too great, would you consider working for Rafter C?"

Women constantly expected something from a man. His labor, his embrace, or his life. He wondered which of these the girl before him with her pleading eyes expected.

He shook his head and her lips tightened. "You looked like you wanted a job. I'm sorry I bothered you."

"No bother. Thank you for the offer."

Her voice struck him, sharper than before. "Is it because you won't work for a woman?"

"I guess you've got it, ma'am." Jean Cash drew a deep breath. A whisper inside told her someone had done this man a hurt along his back. She read it in his manner, in the ragged lines that sometimes piled about his mouth. He was a man seeking his place in the sun, and so far everything had piled up in his way denying him his chance. For the moment she felt pity. Although she was a proud girl, she said softly, "Think it over. If you change your mind, Rafter C still needs a good hand."

FRANK tramped off the doctor's porch as far as the curbline. Here he paused with his shoulder to an upright. His eyes were smoky with resentment. There was something wrong with this range.

There was no question in Frank's mind that Emmett owned his loyalty. He had promised Emmett he would join whatever he was doing; in addition, the compelling fact remained that Emmett had saved his life.

Were Emmett and Norring working hand in hand to break Jean Cash? It was just as likely Norring was the man that had raided them along the trail to Fort McHenry.

Frank shaped a cigaret as he tramped toward the Alhambra. A woman who played piano too well, who wanted to catch his interest. A thin, black-haired musician who fiddled to her music and followed her body through adoring eyes. This was all he knew definitely about the Alhambra.

He cut diagonally across to the saloon. A name on the door of another building broke his stride. Cashtown Bank. Stephen Norring, President.

SO Norring was not merely a saloon man in this town. Frank saw him now shaping up as the big trump card on this range, the new power that had taken over upon old man Cash's death. Jean had said it was a puzzle; to him the blocks were beginning to fit together, the pattern no different from the sordid story of greed on another range. It brought back unhappy recollections to Frank, the tragedy that had ended in his father's death. The creases about his mouth were deeper now than they had been since riding into Cashtown.

When he walked into the Alhambra he brought along a feeling of tension. A half dozen men leaned in groups against the counter. A few more had dropped into unfriendly silence at the poker table. On the platform at the rear of the hall Lily Arnette was playing a fashionable Debussy composition. Frank's stride broke as the power of her music made itself felt. She was considerable of an artist. He wondered again what had brought her here. She sensed the tension in the room and glanced aside, hunting the cause. When she recognized him her lips budded in a smile.

Here was a woman who might put him straight about Cashtown. He might do well to encourage her interest. And then as he drifted against the bar he knew he wanted no part of that friendship.

Firemen Save Barn After Blaze Starts In Straw A slow-burning fire in baled straw was "pinned down" and a barn was saved Wednesday night at the farm of John Bridgeman, four miles northwest of Jacksonville, by the Jacksonville fire department. Bridgeman's barn, covered in a fire insurance clause, was endangered by a smoldering blaze which was discovered at 9 o'clock by a small boy who makes his home with the family. The fire department dispatched a pumper to the scene. Firemen checked the blaze with water from tanks on the truck, then laid 400 feet of hose to a well and found an ample supply of water to finish the job. The interior of the barn was slightly damaged. Several boards were pried off the barn and the smoldering bales of straw were hooked and rolled out. Several children under the ADC program make their home with the Bridgemans. One of the boys was putting his rabbits away when he discovered the fire and raised the alarm. Firemen going to the farm included Chief Howard Reynolds, Capt. Raymond Hayes, Chick Reynolds, Frank Matilevich and Francis Casey.

NEW YORK (NEA) — When Ezzard Charles fights these nights — it could be in Edmonton, Alberta, or at New York's St. Nicholas Arena — the routine is about the same.

Charles will push himself through 10 rounds with some kid and then he'll sit down in the dressing room and listen as people whisper to Tom Tannas, his manager: "It's a shame he is still fighting. You better make him quit."

To this, Charles has one plausible retort. "People paid their way in here tonight," he'll say. "I got paid. It's my living . . . been my living for 19 years. Take an ordinary man when he gets along in years."

"He shouldn't have to work," people say. The man may think so, too. But every morning at 8 o'clock the man is back in the mine or wherever he has to go to get it. What else can he do?"

EZZARD LOOKS AT it this way. He has not taken any extraordinary abuse while fighting at late. One right hand punch by Johnny Holman flattened him and Hurricane Jackson mauled him twice. But he wasn't seriously hurt.

So why, the former heavy-weight champion asks, should he pass up paydays just to please people who think he should have retired after his second bout with Rocky Marciano?

"I own three six-family apartment houses in Cincinnati," he says. "I could make myself $150-$200 a week running them. But I've got to have more in life than just chasin' around and collecting rents."

"Writers always used to say I didn't like to fight. That's ridiculous. Used to burn me up. I like fighting. It's my business."

IN 12 BOUTS SINCE his eighth round KO by Marciano in 1954, Charles has grossed approximately $57,000. Figuring half for himself, that would give him $28,500 throughout an 18-month period.

The Charles pride hasn't been hurt by losses to such as Young Jack Jackson or Toxie Hall or Wayne Bethea. Nor has the ignominy of fighting in small, dingy clubs got him down.

When in New York for his dreary loss to Bethea, Charles looked around the low-ceilinged dressing room.

"St. Nicholas Arena," he said. "Never been here before. But they say you usually catch this club on the way up or on the way out."

CHARLES, OF COURSE, feels he has another chance — that's what the man says — at regaining the heavyweight title.

"With Marciano retired, I figure I can work myself into this elimination," he says, hopefully.

"Why not?" he figures. "I'm only 35. Jersey Joe Walcott was an old guy who made a lot of money without being hurt. Archie Moore is much older than I am and he's a champion who never licked me."

"Who is there? Bob Baker? Johnny Holman? I can take them. And Archie Moore — he'd be just right. I beat him good three times."

HURRICANE JACKSON, surprisingly enough to many, is Charles' personal choice as the toughest of them all.

"I hear somebody saying he can't take it in the body," Ezzard says. "I hit him every place in our two fights — hit him so much my arms got tired. Nothing happened. He's a big rough boy who could be extra tough for this Floyd Patterson."

You ask Ez the inevitable question and you get the expected answer.

"The best fighter I fought? Anybody as strong as that Marciano has got to be the best anybody ever fought."

The Jerseyville Moose dealt the Jacksonville State Hospital Redlegs a double defeat Wednesday night at Jerseyville in two thrilling ball games.

The first game went 11 innings as Jack McNeely pitched great ball only to lose 3-2 as Bob Garner was invincible from the sixth inning on. Bill Hovey homered in the first game for his ninth round-tripper of the season.

The second game was a scoreless duel until the sixth frame when the Moose pushed across the lone run of the game on a hit, an error and another hit to take a 1-0 lead they held the remainder of the tilt.

Elks Club Will Again Sponsor Free Golf School

The free golf school for boys and girls, sponsored by the local Elks Club, which proved so popular last year, will be held again this year. Jim Buckley announced today. Classes will be open to all boys and girls between the ages of eight through 16. The first meeting will be held Monday, June 4, at Nichols Park. Future classes will be held June 5, 6, 11, 12 and 13.

Wood Phillips, Cary Vise and Bob Munk, local golf professionals have volunteered to take charge of the instruction. Jim Buckley and other local amateurs will assist in the school.

The whole idea of the school is to get boys and girls interested in golf by teaching them the simple and correct fundamentals of the game. Simplicity will be the key to the school.

Later a Junior tournament will be held for the various age groups and prizes will be awarded.

Plans have been made by the local Elks Club to send outstanding Junior golfers to the Central Illinois Junior Tournament held in Springfield. Last year 16 local boys entered the tournament and all made good showings. Tommy Farrell and Jim Reynolds won trophies in the tourney.

All boys and girls wishing to learn the A B C's of golf should bring one club and meet at Nichols Park on Monday, June 4, at 9 a.m.

The 1956 baseball season gets underway tonight at the Nichols Park diamond with the Jacksonville Merchants meeting the Griggsville Nite-Hawks at 8 p.m. (DST). For the first time in Jacksonville's history fans will be able to watch baseball teams in action under the lights.

The Jacksonville Merchants are unbeaten so far this season and are one of the stronger teams in the Illinois River Valley League. The Merchants finished second last season in the IRLV League after a late start but manager Walt McEvers has added some long ball hitters for this year and from all indications this is one of the best semi-pro teams that has come out of Jacksonville in several years.

The Griggsville Nite-Hawks, active for several seasons of night baseball are members of the Illinois-Missouri League. The Illinois-Missouri League is one of the strongest semi-pro circuits in the state and the Nite-Hawks are always a contender for the first division. The Nite-Hawks are managed by Glenn Willard, former Springfield Brownie of the Three I League.

Seeing action for the Merchants tonight will probably be Bobby Scott at third, Farrell Mitchell, pitcher or second base, Jake Sellers at short, Bob Gregory first base, Don Hazelrigg in center, Jim Woodward playing left field, Earl Furlong at second, Jim Phalen catch and Howard Hembrough in right. Other players who have joined the club since school is out are Bob Kraushaar, Gene Farmer, Bob McEvers and Rog Ezard.

Yanks Increase AL Lead; Down Senators 9-6

NEW YORK (AP) — Washington's Senators kicked in with some weird baseball in the sixth inning Thursday, and the New York Yankees tallied five unearned runs to register a 9-6 victory and increase their first-place lead in the American League to 6½ games.

Each club used three pitchers, as the hits rattled into all corners of Yankee Stadium. But a couple of Washington errors in the sixth when the score was deadlocked at four-all, plus three hits, gave New York the runs it needed to pull further away from Chicago and Cleveland. Both were idle Thursday, and are tied for second place.

Bill Skowron's single through Lyle Luttrell at short started the Yankees off in the big sixth and, after Elston Howard walked, starter Chuck Stobbs was relieved by Bob Chakales.

Then the fireworks began. Joe Collins batted for Bob Cerv and fouled to Roy Sievers, near the Yankee dugout. Skowron tried for third and when Eddie Yost dropped Sievers' throw for an error, Yanks were perched on second and third.

Andy Carey grounded to Pete Runnels at second, whose throw was too late to get Skowron. Howard, who took third, then was hung up between third and home when Don Larsen grounded to Yost. But Luttrell's throw hit him in the back, and Howard and Carey both romped home when the ball rolled away. Larsen moved to third.

Hank Bauer hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Larsen. Then Billy Martin singled, took second on a wild pitch, and came home on Gil McDougald's single, his third.

Hurls Red Sox To

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bob Porterfield held the Baltimore Orioles to four singles at Memorial Stadium Thursday, pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 4-1 victory.

Bill Wright, first of three Baltimore pitchers, gave up all the Red Sox runs and six of their eight hits in his five innings.

Porterfield, who also collected three singles in three official trips to the plate, did not give up a hit after the fifth inning.

The Orioles scored their lone run in the first and were able to get only one runner as far as second after that. Porterfield walking two men in the sixth inning.

The Red Sox jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first. Ted Williams' infield bouncer scored Billy Goodman from third and Jackie Jensen singled in Billy Klaus.

In the fifth Goodman scored all the way from first when Williams lined a single into the right field corner.

GRAINS RALLY AFTER BENSON ANNOUNCES SOIL BANK RATES

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (U) — A brisk rally developed in grains on the Board of Trade Thursday following Agriculture Secretary Benson's announcement of soil bank payment rates for certain crops.

Early losses by all cereals except soybeans and rye were wiped out and quite good gains substituted. Final prices were at or close to the day's peaks.

Wheat closed 3/4-1 1/2 higher, corn 1 1/2-2 1/2 higher, oats 1 1/2-2 1/2 higher, soybeans 3/4-5/8 higher and land 7 to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher.

In addition to announcing a soil bank rate of $1.20 a bushel on wheat and 90 cents on corn, Benson said the rates would apply this year to crops which have not matured in other words, crops could be plowed up to get soil bank payments prior to maturity.

This seemed to have the biggest influence on the feed grains, corn and oats. Corn jumped about 3 cents from early lows and oats about 2 1/2 cents. In corn the biggest gains were made by the new crop months.

Soybeans were firmer than other cereals all day, selling above the previous close even when the rest of the market was down. Cash soybean oil and meal made moderate gains.

A good part of the buying in soybean oil, soybeans and land was based on an Agriculture Department estimate the carryover of fats and oils Oct. 1 would total 685 million pounds. This was a reduction from an earlier estimate of 700 million pounds.

Soybean exports in the week ended May 23 totaled 624,265 bushels compared with 863,321 bushels a year ago. The total for the crop year which started Oct. 1 is now 54,100,000 against 45,000,000 in the previous crop year.

Kuhnline-Troeckler Nuptials In Greene

CARROLLTON — Joseph H. Kuhnline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Kuhnline of this city, was married Saturday to Miss Kathryn Troeckler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Troeckler of Mitchell.

The ceremony took place at 10 a.m. Mass in St. Elizabeth church in Mitchell with the Rev. Father Lawrence J. Mattingly officiating.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a wedding gown of white Chantilly lace over satin designed with a fitted bodice and short sleeves. Scallops of lace outlined the V neckline. The bouffant skirt worn over a Dior hoop, was complimented by a deep rust ruffle and swept into a chapel train. Lace mitts were worn with the gown.

Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was secured to a plateau of matching lace, trimmed with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

The maid of honor was Miss Bernadette Troeckler, sister of the bride. Her gown was of aqua crystallette in a ballerina length fashioned with a V neckline and bouffant skirt complimented by a panel of sunburst pleating in the front and top of the bodice. A half hat of matching fabric completed her costume. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses.

The best man was Andrew Kuhnline of this city brother of the groom and the ushers were Frank Troeckler, brother of the bride and Francis Kuhnline of Greenfield, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Troeckler, the bride's mother, chose for her daughter's wedding an aqua nylon over taffeta dress with which she wore a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Kuhnline, the groom's mother wore a light blue print dress of silk rayon and her corsage was also a white orchid.

All Day Festivities

Following the ceremony a breakfast was served at the Rose Bowl in Granite City for the members of the bridal party and the immediate relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuhnline were honored Saturday from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. at a reception and dance held in the Veteran of Foreign Wars hall also in Granite City. Mr. and Mrs. Kuhnline are on a wedding trip through the southern states and upon their return will make their home at 2912 Oregon street in Granite City.

Mrs. Kuhnline is a graduate of the Granite City high school and is employed in the office of the Granite City Steel Corporation.

Kuhnline is a graduate of St. John's high school in this city and has spent two years in the United States Army serving 18 months of that time in Korea. He is employed at Owen's Illinois Glass in Alton.

Attending the wedding from this area were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kuhnline, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rawe and children, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kuhnline of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kuhnline of Greenfield.

CLEAN COOKING

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Mrs. Ed Daniel tells this story of minor domestic incident:

In a huff she used prepared shaving lather from a pressurized can, instead of whipped cream, to top her husband's favorite chocolate dessert.

When he picked up his spoon, she turned her back and waited for the explosion. Nothing happened. He ate every bit of the soaped up dessert.

HOUSEBOAT OR BOATHOUSE? — Bob Brown, of St. Petersburg, Fla., built a house and a boat at the same time. When launching time drew near, Brown, who had left himself and the boat an out, eased the craft through the picture window opening, and then, with the boat safely in water, finished the house. Daughter Marian, left, and Mrs. Brown watch the proceedings.

Above, track crew sweeps rain water off the "500 Mile" race track to help dry the pavement so qualifying runs could be made. A crew of 50 men managed to dry the track enough to let six cars attempt their qualifications, however, there is possibility that the race will be postponed because of the weather.

TWO YEARS AFTER—It's been two years now since the Supreme Court made its famous decision on segregation. What's the situation in Southern schools like today? The map, above, compiled from data by the Southern Education Reporting Service, gives you an idea. De-segregation has been instituted in the fringe states, even where pro-segregation centers are to be found. But the Deep South remains untouched by the shaded areas, symbolizing integration. The percentage of Negroes enrolled in schools in the states identified on the map is 23.6 of the total enrollment. Mississippi has the highest percentage—49.9 per cent Negroes—while West Virginia has only 5.2 per cent Negroes in its schools.

School Survey At Ashland Sees Ahead 7 Years

ASHLAND—The school enrollment committee, Bob Aggert, chairman of the Ashland Community Survey on Education, has completed its survey started earlier this year.

The committee was made up of volunteers who called on all residents of the local school district. Each family filled out a questionnaire stating names and ages, and birth dates of their children.

As a result of this they have learned the facts about the enrollment of the schools now and in the future.

In preparing the report the committee has taken the first six grades as a unit as they understood it is the local school board's intention to move the sixth grade back to the local grade school building in the fall.

In the grade school at present there are 221 pupils. Next year the committee's survey reports a beginners class of 42. This figure may vary some, as some may move away or some move into the district before September. This will make an estimated total of 241 in September.

In 1957 the first grade will be larger with 54 pupils (difference either way, according to the transit pupils). This will be a total of 262 in the first six grades. During the years 1958, 1959, 1960 and 1961 there will be 48, 42, 40 and 41 respectively. This will make the grade school enrollment larger by 45 to 60 pupils in the next five years.

The Junior high school, seventh and eighth grades now have 74 students. In 1958, according to the enrollment group's figures, there will be a drop to 66, and in 1957 a drop to 55. In 1958 enrollment climbs to 70 and jumps to 85 the next year.

In the next five years the enrollment of the Junior high will be 85 to 90 pupils. It shows no decline as the enrollment in 1963 should be near 102.

The high school trend is showing a larger percentage in enrollment also. There are 105 pupils in school now and in five years there will be 140 with an increase the next year (1963) to 166 and 171 and 177 the following two years.

The enrollment committee feels this information will be very helpful in the development of recommendations of the other study groups.

Group Honors 10 White Hall School Workers

Dr. La Vern Drake offered prayer at the beginning of the dinner. One hundred and eight people were present to eat the good meal which was prepared for the occasion. Three outgoing members of the board of education were also present, Lester Early, Marvin Day, Dr. Drake and their families.

Thanks was expressed by Fred H. Shappard, superintendent of the unit, who is retiring at the end of this term. A response was given by Lee Silkwood, president of the board of education who thanked the committee for planning and serving the dinner. They include Mrs. Lucy Lynn Collins board of education; Mrs. Ardeen Walker, Mrs. Cloyd Sawyer, W. J. Ritchey of the high school faculty; Mrs. James Frazier, Mrs. Albert Smith, Mrs. W. J. Ritchey, W. Illini Hospital Receives $10,950 From Ford Fund

PITTSFIELD—Illini Community Hospital announced today that it has received a check for $10,950 from the Ford Foundation, half of its share in the Foundation's $200,000,000 program to assist the nation's 3,500 voluntary, non-profit hospitals to improve and extend their services. The balance of the gift is expected to be paid next year.

Under the terms of the grant, final decision as to the use of the money is left to the hospital's governing board. The only condition made by the Foundation in its original announcement of the grant program last Dec. 12 was that the funds could not be used for repaying past obligations or operating expenses for services currently being performed by the hospital.

In making formal application for the grant the board of directors of Illini Community Hospital informed the Foundation that the use of these funds would be made in the construction of additional facilities to the hospital.

The flexibility of the grant was indicated in the foundation announcement which permitted the hospital to use its gift in any area of hospital service including, for example, attainment of accreditation, disaster planning, mental illness, prematurity, rehabilitation, handicapped children and so forth. The ways in which this goal could be reached was state as improvement of, or addition to, facilities or services, or to training of personnel, or conduct of research.

SCURVY SERVICES

First Lutheran service on American soil was held on Christmas Day, 1619, when a group of Danish settlers, ravished by scurvy, held services on the shores of Hudson Bay before returning to Denmark.

Emily Dawson, Walter Eddy Of Greene Are Wed

WHITE HALL—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dawson have announced the marriage of their daughter Emily to Sgt. Walter E. Eddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Eddy of this city, on May 14th at the home of Rev. Donald Crossman. Mr. and Mrs. Billy Eddy were attendants and the groom left May 28 for Colorado to continue service with the U.S. Army. He was home on a thirty day leave and has spent thirteen years in the Army. Mrs. Eddy expects to join him at a later date.

A family fish fry was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Eddy on Sunday honoring the couple.

U.S. Army scout dogs can detect alien scents at distances of 200 to 300 yards.
